Content (Outline of Course)

The course begins looking at what effects religion has on society. It then moves through topics such as world religions, and influential writers and the difference they have made to our thinking. We will also consider topics such as IVF, environmental ethics, artificial intelligence, and the body/soul debate. A final element of this course is looking at religion and its portrayal in the media.

Assessment

There are assessments that are to be completed throughout the year. These assessments vary in terms of their length and presentation. These are assessed against the assessment objectives. Learning logs are to be kept throughout the year as these form part of the assessment towards the overall qualification.
