

Atelier di opere d'arte - Works of art by local artists

Throughout school we have taken part in an art project is set up for children involving linking up with a school in Milan and artist Mackenzie Thorpe. Across St Patrick's the children have been recreating work by local artist Mackenzie Thorpe. His worked has provided imagination and inspiration for a new generation of budding artists.

All classes took part have taken part and used a variety of methods from pastels to paints, even some using fancy green screen technology as well. The project allowed the children to look at the region they are from in much more detail and take pride in it.

Years 5 and 6 children were in contact with our partner children throughout the year through exchanging pen pal letters. We concluded our project by exchanging ideas, school traditions and songs via Skype call with our Italian friends.

St Patrick's believe it is important we develop an outward looking community so the children have their aspirations raised and they see themselves as citizens of a wider world. ”
